1) GOAL: To promote and facilitate CASC collaboration with other organizations or associations who share a common interest or goal.

In this time of budgetary constraints and standards and assessment-driven education, it has become increasingly clear that CASC must become actively involved with entities within and without the educational area if we are to implement effective school counselor leadership in California. Collaborative efforts can be divided into two distinct groups – those within the educational community and those from the realm of business, industry, and government who can advise and support school counseling.

COLLABORATIONS
2) PURPOSE: To form structured relationships with other non-profit and/or for-profit organizations toward the advancement of the school counseling profession and the students of California.

Suggestions for Agreements:
- Exchange of newsletters and other relevant information.
- Promotion of writing articles for other’s newsletters.
- Participation at conferences.
- Recognition and promotion of each other’s organization when appropriate.
- Support of legislation which advances mutual interests.
- Endorsement of policy statements.
- Possible collaboration in publications, workshops, etc.
- Agreements can be monetary or in-kind in nature.

Each partnership agreement will be tailored to the needs and interests of the collaborating organizations.

3) METHOD: Interested organizations should contact the CASC Business Manager to obtain an application and to discuss the ability to pursue a relationship with CASC. All collaboration requests must be in writing and will be reviewed by the Executive Director. CASC reserves the right to approve or deny any application.

7.05 Partnerships. Partnerships may be created by the Directors with other organizations, business and/or industries from time to time in keeping with the goals of the Association and in response to organizational planning and the needs of the membership.
