Creating Inclusive Schools and Promoting Mental Wellness for LGBTQ+ Students

ASCA's ethical standards call on school counselors to advocate for and affirm LGBTQ+ students. Sadly, only 32% of LGBTQ+ students in California always feel safe in their classroom and only 27% feel comfortable talking to their school counselor about their LGBTQ+ identity. A lack of cultural humility and fear of pushback often result in hesitancy around LGBTQ+ inclusion efforts leaving these students to fend for themselves. Participants will leave this session with a stronger understanding of LGBTQ+ identities, emerging challenges that impact mental wellness, legal obligations and practical actions school counselors can take to create needed change.
